

"Smart bracelets for safer nights out"

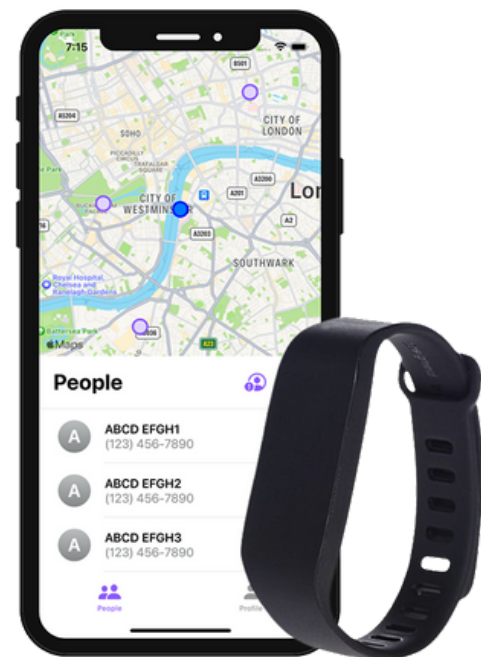

Mission

Brave is making discreet and stylish smart bracelets to prevent sexual assault on college campuses.

1 in 4 women at college are getting sexually assaulted, and according to research, most of these assaults happen at or after college parties when students are separated from their friends.

Why Us?

Brave is built BY students FOR students and FOR Title IX offices BY Title IX offices. We are taking a user-informed design process by speaking to our end customers, being the students, as well as, our distribution partners being the Title IX offices.

Company Highlights

- Consistent demand from the COO of URBN to sell in Europe
- Letters of Intent committed from Loyola Marymount University, University of South Dakota, and Boston College
- Featured on Fox News, Daily Trojan, and Viterbi Times
- Working with Title IX offices and hundreds of students to create a stylish and effective solution

Our Team

KIAN ABRISHAMI
CEO

- Ultra Marathoner
- Ironman finisher
- Internship in SWE
- 6 mos Medical Device Manufacturing
- USC Biomedical Engineering

ALEC PETROS
COO

- Ultra Marathoner
- 2+ yrs startup experience
- 3+ yrs raising private capital for startups
- USC Marshall School of Business

SABRINA LASSEGUE
CMO

- RAINN certified speaker
- Passed two bills in congress to help survivors of SA
- CEO of YRP
- UNICEF ambassador
- Actor and Director

KELLY LUKITO
FELLOW

- Software Engineering Intern
- Computer Science and Business at USC
- Product testing for design